GID not only picks home décor concepts and products available from local stores but also looks at ideas from around the world. Curated for the affluent, sophisticated homeowner, GID is the only publication that offers local design and architectural news, while covering global trends in construction.

GID is read by the architects, builders, consultants, design professionals and artists. It is the influential guide that leads home owners to discover local resources for design, decor, furnishing, architecture and renovation.

GID doesn't just speak to experienced architects in the country, but also shows glimpses of works by legendary architects and product designs that have stunned the design community. From glossy interiors to rough construction sites, from discussing demand and supply of materials to new age project management methods, it is an essential read for any professional.
